From the Gavel

Spring in the air! Or is it? As March is really upon us I am beginning to wander when spring will get here and actually stay!!! I know the weather is crazy everywhere not just here in DC.

Good grief we have been busy and it is not going to slow down. February 29th marks the date for the submissions of the AEMA awards and GKM Awards. So our Awards committee is in high gear right now. Good Luck to all the applicants!

The Awards Luncheon date has been set, April 26th at 1:00 pm. We are also so appreciative of our liaison Kay Burlin at the Fairfax at Belvoir Woods. She has coordinated for the luncheon to be held there again this year!!! Thank you Kay!!!

Our local members are busy going here and there. Mary Alice our VP, has lots of pictures both on FB and here in the Castle Gram. Coming up on the 12th of March we will be egg decorating in the Pysanky style. Its lots of fun and so creative. March 24th we head out to the Museum of Natural History. If you are in the DMV area please join us, we accept last minute add ons!!!!!!

Vanessa Joly our Nominations Chair is out and about scouring to fill our board for next year. Please look at this years vacancies and if you are able please volunteer for one. It is a very rewarding experience. Engineer Spouses rock that's all I can say!

Brenda Schultze our Welfare Chair has coordinated for us to help our AEA again with one of their advertising campaigns on Mar 9th, if you have time come out to the Humphreys Engineer Center and help stuff envelopes.

Check our what's "Happenings" going on all over the world with our Engineers in this months Castle Gram! Our CG Editor Susan Wright does such a wonderful job putting together all the articles and pictures sent to her. THANKS Susan!!!

We always love to hear what all our members are doing through out the Engineer World - so please send us pictures and articles of all that is going on with you!!!!

Warmly,

Launa

SIMPLIFYING YOUR CRAZY, WONDERFUL MILITARY LIFE

Volunteering – Why should YOU do it?

Volunteering and military spouses tend to go hand in hand. Most milspouses volunteer for multiple organizations, some at the same time, throughout their tenure. Volunteering gives us the opportunity to help out in our communities without the full commitment of a job, or instead of a job. It is important for filling in gaps on a resume, it helps us meet people when we move, and it gives us a sense of satisfaction, of giving back. The percentage of civilians who volunteer is about 27% compared to a whopping 70% of military spouses who volunteer. Why is the percentage of volunteers so high among the military spouse community?

Why do military spouses volunteer?

Sherri Davenport, Army spouse for 24 years, has volunteered throughout her husband's career, in a myriad of places. Sherri explains why she volunteers, "As a military kid, I grew up with the sense of community wherever you go. I think I was an extension of that, and seeing my mom volunteer, I was motivated to be part of something bigger than myself." Anyone who had the honor of volunteering with Sherri, can say that she gives to the community wholeheartedly.

A new Army spouse, Angela Smith, volunteered in her local church before marrying her husband and moving across the country. When she arrived in Fort Huachuca, she began volunteering with the Community Spouses' Club because she thought her time would be better spent volunteering in something she genuinely enjoyed.

I volunteer to meet people, plain and simple. Each time I arrive at a new duty station, I find some way to volunteer. Within a few months, I know 75% of the population on the installation, and I love it! I really enjoy helping out organizations on the installation and helping the families.

Did you know volunteer work is appropriate to put on your resume? "Volunteering is also a terrific way to gain new skills, or showcase those you already have – it has led to several paying job opportunities for me, and allowed me to be a stay-at-home mom when my kids were small without leaving a gap in my resume," Sherri explains.

Where do military spouses volunteer?

Military spouses volunteer both on and off the installation. The most common volunteer spot would be something regarding the Family Readiness Groups. The initial tie between our spouse's job and the families of coworkers. Beginning in college, Sherri volunteered for Tau Beta Sigma, a national honorary for college bands. Over the course of her military spouse career, Sherri has volunteered for Family Readiness Groups, Army Community Service, Boy Scouts, and many others.

If you are looking for volunteer opportunities on an army installation, try www.myarmyonesource.com, on this website you can register and apply to be a volunteer at all the organizations who use volunteers. Then you can easily track your hours with each organization and overall. Most installations will have a Volunteer Coordinator (check with Army Community Service, Fleet & Family Services, or Airmen & Family Readiness) and they will send out emails when volunteers are needed for specific events.

Another great way to find volunteer opportunities is through Volunteer Match. Using volunteer match, you can find opportunities to volunteer either in person or virtually. You can search for a specific cause, or by the type of work you'd like to do. Organizations like The Community Corps, presented by Lumity in Chicago, IL use Volunteer Match to reach out to volunteers interested in both local and virtual volunteer opportunities. Maggie Christ, Marketing and PR Coordinator for Lumity, uses Volunteer Match to find people who want to help, but who want to feel productive doing so. "Skills based volunteering lets you do what you're already good at to give back to your community. If you're good at technology, marketing, or finance, you can use those talents and rather than stacking canned food or passing out flyers."

Advice for the next generation of volunteers?

Angela's advice for newer military spouses to encourage them is, "Volunteering is one of the easiest ways to get involved and be a part of a group of like-minded individuals who care about the community."

My advice: Try it! What can it hurt? Worst case scenario, you don't like the volunteer work. Best case, you meet tons of awesome people, truly feel like you are giving back to the community, and a few years down the road, it may even help you land a job!

"The constant changes of military life are hard, volunteering is a great way to 'plug-in' with like-minded people as soon as you arrive at a new duty station. It will help you feel more confident too, hard to feel sorry for yourself when you are helping others!" Sherri explains. In fact, Sherri was the first person who dragged me out of my stairwell apartment in Germany in 2008 and "forced" me to get involved. I'm oh-so-glad she did!

The History of the Chief of Engineers' Gold Castles

In the spring of 1903, Douglas MacArthur graduated at the top of his class from the U.S. Military Academy at West Point and was commissioned a second lieutenant in the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. To commemorate the occasion, his proud family presented him with 14-karat gold castle insignia as a graduation gift. MacArthur wore the castles as a young engineer officer and later carried them with him during his career as a commander in World War I, Army Chief of Staff, and Supreme Commander of the Allied Forces in the Pacific in World War II.

MacArthur at West Point

In March 1945, MacArthur presented the castles to Maj. Gen. Leif Sverdrup, a close friend, who had served as chief engineer on his staff in the Southwest Pacific Area in World War II. General Sverdrup recalled that General MacArthur, who had transferred to the infantry branch in 1917, told him that the castles meant very much to him, but that they “deserved to be worn by a real engineer” and that they should “never end up in a museum somewhere.”

Thirty years later, on May 2, 1975, Major General Sverdrup attended the engineer dinner at Fort Belvoir, Virginia, marking the Corps' 200th anniversary. In a quiet corner before the banquet, Sverdrup presented the castles privately to Lieutenant General Gribble, then Chief of Engineers.

Overwhelmed by the unexpected gesture, Gribble later announced to the banquet guests his intention for the future: “I (propose) to hand the castles over to my successor at the conclusion of my tenure as Chief of Engineers, thus initiating an important tradition as well as discharging my trust to him.”

When General Gribble retired on 25 June 1976, he handed the coveted insignia over to his successor, Lt. Gen. John W. Morris. The castles, Gribble said in his departing remarks, epitomized Esprit de Corps—the spirit of the Corps. Since then, all chiefs have received MacArthur's gold castles upon assuming command and have proudly worn them as unique symbols of the spirit of the Engineer Regiment.

The U.S. Army welcomed Lt. Gen. Todd T. Semonite as the 54th Chief of Engineers and the new Commanding General of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers in a Change of Command ceremony at Fort Myer, Virginia. Outgoing commander Lt. Gen. Thomas Bostick was also honored during an Armed Forces Full Honors retirement ceremony. Gen. Mark Milley, Chief of Staff of the Army, presided. (Photo by Michael P. Whetston, USACE Public Affairs)

Silent Sky

Sunday, February 16 from 1:30 PM to 4:30 PM

A decade before women gained the right to vote, Henrietta Leavitt and her fellow women “computers” transformed the science of astronomy. In the Harvard Observatory, Leavitt found 2,400 new variable stars and made important discoveries about their fluctuating brightness, enabling fellow scientists to map the Milky Way and beyond. This inspiring drama explores the determination, passion and sacrifice of the women who redefined our understanding of the cosmos.

The Army Spouses' Club
of the Greater Washington Area

On February 1, Europe District employees and spouses supported the Wiesbaden Community Spouses Club annual scholarship fundraiser. This year's theme was Gala en Blanc. Gala en Blanc is a worldwide phenomenon that we brought to our part of Germany. Over $9000 was raised that will go back to our local community in the form of scholarships.

Our winter here in Wiesbaden has been a little strange. Lots of damaging, high winds but no real snow. Such was the case that we had to cancel our original coffee date for the month (school/work delays and cancellations in some areas), but we were able to re-schedule last minute. I love that we had an intimate gathering where we shared lots of stories and lots of laughs. You know it's a great coffee when you finally look at your watch and say, "Wow, it's late." We truly are family.

JED Happenings

On 19 February, the District celebrated Engineer Week with a recognition ceremony for two new Professional Engineers, Steven Mitsuyuki and Hunjin Kye. JED also viewed a Robotics demonstration from members of the Zama High School STEM club. COL Verell awarded the Army Achievement Medal to CPT Uchekukwu Njoku for his work as the District STEM coordinator.

Don't be an April Fool

Be prepared. Back up your files on March 31st.

<http://www.worldbackupday.com/en/>

What is backup?

A backup is a second copy of all your important files — for example, your family photos, home videos, documents and emails.

Instead of storing it all in one place (like your computer), you keep another copy of everything somewhere safe.

But why should I backup?

Losing your files is way more common than you'd think.

Ever lost your phone, camera or tablet? That counts. Your stuff could have been saved with a backup.

One small accident or failure could destroy all the important stuff you care about.

So how do I backup?

Most people backup their files in one of two ways: to an external drive, or somewhere on the Internet.

It's really easy, and you only need to set it up once!

Disclaimer: Even though this process is super simple, we're not responsible for any data loss. Make sure you read through each screen carefully and you should be fine!

The Truth Behind “In Like A Lion, Out Like a Lamb”

by Farmers' Almanac Staff | Posted In: Featured, Seasonal, Weather, Weather Folklore

You may be familiar with this bit of folklore about March:

If March comes in like a lion, it will go out like a lamb.

Is there any truth to this saying? Weather folklore sayings are as colorful as our imagination. While many sayings are based on careful observations and turn out to be accurate, others are merely rhymes or beliefs of the people who came before us.

Ancestral Beliefs—Balance

Those people often believed that bad spirits could affect the weather adversely, so they were cautious as to what they did or did not do in certain situations.

Those beliefs often included ideas that there should be a balance in weather and life. So, if a month came in bad (roaring like a lion), it should go out good and calm (docile, like a lamb).

With March being such a changeable month, in which we can see warm spring-like temperatures or late-season snowstorms, you can understand how this saying might hold true in some instances.

We can only hope that if March starts off stormy it will end on a calm note, but the key word is hope. However, this saying seems to be simply a rhyme rather than a true weather predictor.

More March Weather Lore

Some other March-related weather lore includes:

- A dry March and a wet May? Fill barns and bays with corn and hay.
- As it rains in March, so it rains in June.
- March winds and April showers? Bring forth May flowers.

*So many mists in March you see, so many frosts in May will be.
Is't on St. Joseph's day (19th) clear, So follows a fertile year;
Is't on St. Mary's (25th) bright and clear, Fertile is said to be the year.*
